

More Identifying Sentence Structures _____

Identify each of the following sentences as simple, compound, or complex. Underline all dependent clauses.

The energetic boy ran around at the park, but his sister read a book under a tree. _____

The silly clown juggled colorful balls at the circus. _____

Because she felt excited about her new video game, Reagan jumped up and down while screaming. _____

After all the hard work the class had done, the teacher was happy with the good test results. _____

Although Mrs. Corbett didn't like fish, she had to teach about them during her science lesson. _____

Dillan enjoys working on his science fair project, but he also likes to read. _____

Under the law in the state of Florida, drivers must use their turn signals when attempting to change lanes. _____

Randall ate pancakes, and Elliot ate a bowl of Cheerios.

The dog ran around the yard, jumped over the fence, and barked at the surprised mailman. _____

The boy with the red and blue shirt hit me! _____

More Identifying Sentence Structures Answer Key

Identify each of the following sentences as simple, compound, or complex. Underline all dependent clauses.

The energetic boy ran around at the park, but his sister read a book under a tree. (compound)

The silly clown juggled colorful balls at the circus. (simple)

Because she felt excited about her new video game, Reagan jumped up and down while screaming. (complex)

After all the hard work the class had done, the teacher was happy with the good test results. (complex)

Although Mrs. Corbett didn't like fish, she had to teach about them during her science lesson. (complex)

Dillan enjoys working on his science fair project, but he also likes to read. (compound)

Under the law in the state of Florida, drivers must use their turn signals when attempting to change lanes. (complex)

Randall ate pancakes, and Elliot ate a bowl of Cheerios. (compound)

The dog ran around the yard, jumped over the fence, and barked at the surprised mailman. (simple)

The boy with the red and blue shirt hit me! (simple)