

Understanding Onomatopoeia _____

Onomatopoeia is a fancy name for a word that suggests the sound of the source it describes. "Choo! Choo!," for example would suggest the sound of a train.

Listed below are several examples of onomatopoeia. Beside each example, write the name of the object, or source, of the sound. There may be more than one correct answer. Have fun!

Example: "Choo! Choo!" train

"Meow" _____

"Ding, dong!" _____

"Drip!" _____

"Creek!" _____

"Roar!" _____

"Crash!" _____

"Bam!" _____

"Oink!" _____

"Moo!" _____

"Slam!" _____

"Honk! Honk!" _____

"Bang!" _____

Think of an object of your own that makes a sound. _____

Write the onomatopoeia of your object here. _____

Understanding Onomatopoeia Answer Key

Onomatopoeia is a fancy name for a word that suggests the sound of the source it describes. "Choo! Choo!," for example would suggest the sound of a train.

Listed below are several examples of onomatopoeia. Beside each example, write the name of the object, or source, of the sound.

There may be more than one correct answer. Have fun!

Example: "Choo! Choo!" train

ACCEPT ALL REASONABLE ANSWERS!

"Meow" _____

"Ding, dong!" _____

"Drip!" _____

"Creek!" _____

"Roar!" _____

"Crash!" _____

"Bam!" _____

"Oink!" _____

"Moo!" _____

"Slam!" _____

"Honk! Honk!" _____

"Bang!" _____

Think of an object of your own that makes a sound. _____

Write the onomatopoeia of your object here. _____